

Measure G will maintain the Davis tradition of educational excellence for the children in our schools by supporting our teachers and school staff for about 50 cents a day.

Teachers in Davis schools are at the center of student achievement. Keeping teacher and support staff salaries competitive attracts the best educators to our schools and prevents staff from leaving for higher paying districts. Currently, Davis teachers and staff are paid less on average than those in other schools in our region. Measure G fixes this systemic problem and ensures high quality public education into the future.

Measure G allows our school district to:

- Attract and retain outstanding teachers and educational staff.
- Maintain a high quality education for our students by preserving excellent academic programs in reading, math, arts, and science.
- Ensure students have the teaching support needed to prepare them for college and 21 st century careers.

Salaries for Davis teachers and school staff are lower than neighboring school districts. Measure G provides dedicated funding to close this compensation gap. It will help Davis recruit and retain the best educators, maintaining our community tradition of educational excellence in our public schools, and preserving strong property values.

All funding raised by Measure G will go directly to raising pay for our teachers and support staff.

Measure G protects seniors by providing a waiver.

California spends less on education per pupil than most other states. Recent changes in state law have reduced DJUSD's share of funding even further.

Local action is needed to honor our commitment to our educators.

Join students, parents, seniors, business and community leaders, the Davis Teachers Association and the California School Employees Association and Support Measure G!

www.MeasureGYes.com

Delaine Eastin, Former State Superintendent of Public Instruction

Joanne Diel, Pastor and Retired Teacher

Roxanne Deutsch, 2nd Grade Teacher, DJUSD

Bill Roe, Davis Business Leader

Ryan Davis, Davis Schools Foundation

Alan Fernandes, Trustee, DJUSD